

As of February 5, 2021, the Propane Training Institute and some provincial governments will extend training certifications post expiry date. See the table below.

British Columbia	BC agreed to allow employees to continue to perform their duties on an interim basis for three months post expiry date as long as social distancing rules are in place.
Alberta	Alberta has renewed extended re-certification exemption for 120 days to May 28, 2021.
Manitoba	Manitoba does not oversee or track renewals of certificates. PTI is extending certificates for three months post expiry date as long as social distancing rules are in place. The province agrees to recognize PTI's decision.
Saskatchewan	Technical Safety Saskatchewan indicated that considering PTI is extending certificates for three months post expiry date as long as social distancing rules are in place, they agree to recognize PTI's decision.
Ontario	The Technical Standards and Safety Authority has agreed to extend Record of Training certificates until further notice. They have noted however, that online training for the theoretical component should be pursued if it is available.
Québec	The province does not oversee or track these renewals of certificates. PTI is extending certificates for three months post expiry date as long as social distancing rules are in place.
New Brunswick	New Brunswick does not oversee or track renewals of certificates. PTI is extending certificates for three months post expiry date as long as social distancing rules are in place.
Nova Scotia	The province does not oversee or track these renewals of certificates. PTI is extending certificates for three months post expiry date as long as social distancing rules are in place.
Prince Edward Island	The province does not oversee or track these renewals of certificates. PTI is extending certificates for three months post expiry date as long as social distancing rules are in place.
Newfoundland and Labrador	The province has indicated that the training must be conducted in accordance with provincial COVID-19 protocols and an extension of re-certification will not be granted.